

NEW YORK MUSIC TEACHER

Says "Vinol Cures Chronic Coughs"

New York City, 121 Nicholas Ave.—"I teach piano and singing and when suffering from chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis I use Vinol as I find it cures when other remedies fail."—Henry Albert.

The reason Vinol is so successful in such conditions is because it is a constitutional remedy containing beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptones and glycerophosphates. It strengthens and revitalizes the entire system and assists nature to expel the disease. We know of many such cases.

Broadway Pharmacy, G. G. Bagler, Prop., Norwich, Vinol is sold in Williamsburg by the Wilson Drug Co., in Danbury by the A. W. Williams Pharmacy, and in Putnam by J. F. Canine.

TWO AUTOS WRECKED

ON NORWICH TURNPIKE

A new Red touring car owned and driven by Joseph Longo of this city was badly damaged on Tuesday morning about 8.30 in a collision with a Norwich turnpike just outside the New London city line with a Ford car that is used for milk delivery.

The Ford was driven by R. J. Hayes. The accident happened on a curve in front of the Coffey farm.

The wheel on the side of the touring car was badly smashed, the left front wheel, the fender and other parts being completely wrecked. The machine had been in use only two weeks and had been driven about 500 miles.

Hayes was to deliver about 250 quarts of milk in New London and some 200 quarts was spilled when the cans were thrown out of the machine.

The hood and seat was all that was left of the Ford. The rear part being entirely demolished.

The Longo car, which was coming from New London, just passing an automobile truck owned by E. F. Kelly, the contractor at the submarine base, and driven by William Burke, then Longo saw the Ford rounding the curve ahead.

Longo and Hayes said about the accident, Longo was making about 35 miles an hour, when he put on his brakes, the touring car started to skid on the slippery road. Longo got it straightened out, but his momentum carried it on and it skidded into the Ford.

Longo said he was not hurt, but the Ford was in danger of being hit. The whole express body was crushed and the Ford was thrown into the air.

Hayes was not thrown out of the car and hold on.

Longo had three women and three men in his car and none of them were hurt, either a "blow" one woman fainted and another became hysterical. They all came to Norwich in another car shortly after the accident.

He had been in the water for some time and swam across the river twice when he was overtaken with cramps and went down.

Several boys who were in the water with him swam to his rescue but could not save him.

His cry for help attracted several people to the banks of the river. Boats were gotten out and the river was dragged but it was not till nearly 7 o'clock that the body was found about ten feet from where Harrell went down.

The young man was a member of the Union St. Jean de Baptiste and St. Joseph's societies of America. He had resided in Baltimore for the past 10 years and had become very popular with the boys of his age.

CENTERS OF RESISTANCE

NOW THE GERMAN PLAN.

With the British Army in France, Aug. 13.—A captured enemy street order signed "Ludendorff" lay on the necessity of economizing men. The order asserts that the two elements essential to the future conduct of the war are "maintain every man's fighting strength and the spirit of offensive." The document was issued late in June.

"It is essential," the order, "that all the commanders of whatever rank, as well as all troops, should be imbued with the idea that the war cannot be won by a stubborn defense, but only by a further succession of vigorous attacks. These attacks, however, must be based on the principle of adherence to and improvement on the methods of warfare adopted in the recent offensives."

The document is absolutely essential that we should avoid our old fault of attacking in too dense formations and we should reduce our casualties by every possible means.

The order is frank in explaining that because of the reduced German strength, it frequently will be impossible to hold continuous trench lines and recommends instead the creation of centers of resistance.

The document warns commanders that the enemy will obtain a foothold within the German lines they must consider carefully whether it is worth the loss of men and material in risking a large number of lives.

The value that the Germans placed on ground that they have lost is seen in the fact that they are now holding on to the territory they have lost in the last offensive by the allies and by the use of a large number of troops.

The document admits that the rationing of food in the occupied territory and the thereby relieve the homeland from sending supplies.

"Now and during the coming weeks," the order says, "the crops on the territory occupied and conquered must be harvested and the land and huge fields under cultivation promise us a rich harvest."

BROADWAY STORE WINDOW

The car was driven by Gresser, who was not hurt, but the car was badly damaged, the radiator and front axle being smashed.

The steering gear was broken and the car suffered other injuries.

Mr. Gresser claims it was the defective steering gear that caused the accident. After the accident the two men were taken to the police headquarters by Policeman Brook where they were charged with intoxication and operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

One plate glass window in the store was smashed and two men in the car were at work on the car with a mechanic all Tuesday evening, trying to get the auto in running order so that it could be moved from Broadway.
